

EWATER GROUP TO DELIVER PHASE 3 OF
THE AUSTRALIAN WATER PARTNERSHIP

eWater Group has won the contract to deliver Phase 3 of the Australian Water Partnership

The Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade (DFAT) has selected eWater Group as the Managing Contractor of Phase 3 of the Australian Water Partnership to deliver sustainable and climate resilient water resource management in the Indo-Pacific region over the next five years.

As part of an open tender process, eWater Group demonstrated its ability to deliver integrated water resource management with integrity, value and evidence-based advice and support.

eWater Group has successfully mobilised Australian water sector expertise through the Australian Water Partnership Phase 1 and 2 since 2015 which has seen AWP evolve to deliver development and partnership outcomes driven by local needs.

Michael Wilson, Group CEO, eWater Group, said “Our successful management of the Australian Water Partnership solidifies our continued commitment to support, facilitate and encourage high-quality, reliable, and evidence-based decision-making over water resources.”

“As a trusted advisor to public, private and research sector, water managers in Australia and internationally, eWater Group brings a wealth of experience implementing complex climate-resilient water resource management programs.”

eWater Group together with the Australian Water Partnership look forward to delivering a successful Phase 3 on behalf of the Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade.
